

ABOUT

Machine learning and data science are the most popular topics in nowadays research, irrespective of the domain. This workshop concentrates on the mathematical part involved in machine learning and data science, instead of focusing on the application side. We believe that this will bring in a clear understanding of the subjects. This workshop will be useful to faculty, research scholars, and students to strengthen their knowledge in ML & data science.

Topics to be covered

- Mathematical basics of machine learning
- Mathematical methods for data science
- Distance metrics
- Reliability in big data storage with erasure codes
