5.1 Percentage of students that participate in civic engagement programs

Narrative/website providing an overview of the institution's civic engagement programs for students

Students actively participate in a variety of civic engagement programs aimed at fostering community development and social responsibility. Through special annual village camps, students collaborate with local communities to address pressing needs, such as organizing tree plantations, conducting lake and beach cleanups, and supporting environmental conservation. Additionally, they engage in crucial public service initiatives like Voter ID registration drives, immunization camps, and volunteering in healthcare efforts. Beyond these, students also contribute to educational outreach by organizing career guidance programs and soft skills training for underprivileged students in rural areas. These initiatives are supported by documented evidence available through the institution's community activities social media website, showcasing their ongoing impact and community involvement.

- Narrative providing an overview of the institution's programs to support employee community service

At SSN College, we believe that fostering a culture of service and community engagement is integral to our mission of academic excellence and holistic development. Our commitment to community service extends beyond the classroom and into the broader community, encouraging our faculty and staff to actively contribute their time, skills, and resources to meaningful causes.

Professional Development through Service: In addition to direct volunteer work, we encourage employees to integrate community service into their professional development. We offer workshops and training sessions that emphasize the skills and benefits of service-oriented leadership, promoting a culture of giving back within our institution.
